Compass Group Values

A value speaks to what is important. A lens puts things into focus and gives perspective. Both shape who we become and give us clarity in order to reach our goals.

At Compass, we want to see life and people through the lens of love, because above all else, we value love (Colossians 3:14).

We want to be known by love.

1 Corinthians 13 tells us what real love is and what it looks like in everyday life. The passage repeats the phrase "love always..."

For us to be known by love, we must reflect love in all we do, so as a Home Group we will model these values...

We are always...

Building Relationships (Romans 12:10, James 5:16)

Week-in and week-out, we will work to know each other more — being full present, asking questions, providing support and caring for each other when tough things happen, as well as celebrating life's success together.

We will respect confidentiality, avoid gossip and immediately seek to resolve any conflicts that arise. We will encourage openness and transparency as we build relationships. As we continue to discover and develop our passions and giftings, we agree to shared ownership of the group by participating in various roles.

Exploring Biblical Truth (2 Timothy 3:16-17)

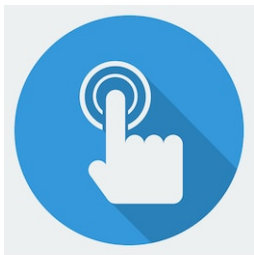

The Bible will play a central role in our groups because it holds the words of life.

We read faithfully — meaning regularly and with the eyes of faith — and we read expectantly — anticipating an encounter with God each time we open his book.

As we explore biblical truth, we begin to apply what we learn to every area of our lives.

Activating our Faith (Luke 5:32, Matthew 25:37-40)

Our commission from Jesus is clear: Go and make disciples.

We want to be known by love and that means we serve and live like Jesus did, everywhere we go.

Activating our faith means we will use our time, resources and talents to serve others regionally and globally.

We will encourage one another to take 'Next Steps' in our faith. Steps like making a decision to follow Jesus, discovering spiritual gifts, baptism, child dedication, joining a serve team, sharing Christ, one-on-one discipleship. We recognize that groups have a life cycle and we will plan to multiply our leaders and group within that season (12-24 months).
